RGB Furniture Manufacturing

by Battlefords News-Optimist/Regional Optimist Editorial Staff

It's taken nearly two months for Robert Brown to move his family and business to North Battleford from Alberta, a lot longer than he had anticipated.

The Edmonton-area man said Monday things have been going slowly in getting his business, RGB Furniture Manufacturing, up and running. They had a tough time getting out of Alberta because they've had to transport many trailer loads of equipment from their old shop to here, having started in mid-to-late-July.

"It's a big mess. We're just getting started (here)," he said, sipping his coffee. "We just finished with the last (load) last week. Equipment, supplies, everything.

"It took a lot longer than we thought because we had (other) commitments, had to clean out the building and move it all here, clean out the house. We moved the house the end of August."

Robert admits they didn't realize how big the scope of everything would be, from how long it would take to move to how long it would take to get things set up. But it also doesn't help when the majority of your employees quit without saying anything.

"We gave our Alberta employees two months notice. Within four days we only had two guys left . . . (the others) didn't even give notice," he said with a chuckle. "(The two) stuck with us until we cleaned up the shop."

Robert expects it will take at least another two months to do renovations to the new building they're in before they start production.

"We didn't start doing anything here until last week," he admits. "We had hoped to be finished renovations, but we're just starting them."

They already have one employee hired to help with the renovations, and another will have to be brought in to help complete the project. The hope is, once renovations are done, the company will be able to start production. By then, between six to eight people will be on staff and ready to go.

Robert is co-owner of the business with his wife Denise. Their company, once it gets going, will produce home entertainment centres, diningroom units including tables and cabinets, buffets and hutches, china cabinets and bedroom units. All their furniture will be made with northern red oak and European beech.

The business is located in the old Speedy Auto Glass building at 302 Railway Avenue.

Geordie Smith, a furniture builder from Ruddell and the first employee hired, said he's been working only since Sept. 6, but is looking forward to working with the company.

"It's going to be cool. There's lots of cool equipment. Robert has lots of good ideas," Smith remarked. "It's a nice place."

Once renovations are complete and production begins, RGB Furniture will employ six to eight staff.
